

Culture Craft Saturday

Arizona State Museum is 120!

Saturday, April 6, 2013
10:00 am – 3:30 pm, FREE
Arizona State Museum

Discover Arizona State Museum and learn about the cultural traditions of southern Arizona.

A full day of exploration and fun!

One day only! See Greek, Roman, African, Mexican & Chinese objects.

- Kick up your heels to Tohono O’odham, Yaqui, Mexican, African, and Chinese music and dance.
- Watch demonstrations by master traditional artists.
- Weave a basket, create a tissue paper flower, make a paper pot & more.
- Play cultural games.
- Examine objects like an archaeologist does.
- Follow QR clues using your smartphone to explore the museum.
- Meet curators and go on exhibit tours.
- Use an atlatl to hunt a mammoth.
- Break a piñata, have a slice of birthday cake.

Arizona State Museum is 120!

On April 7, 1893 House Bill 42 was enacted, creating a museum for the territory of Arizona, now known as Arizona State Museum. George W. P. Hunt wrote the bill and later served as the first governor of the state of Arizona. Governor Hunt and his family donated objects that are now part of the ASM's permanent collections.

Full Schedule

www.statemuseum.arizona.edu

Teachers! Receive a resource packet and a certificate for 1-5 hours of professional development. No need to pre-register; sign-in upon arrival.

Arizona State Museum
THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA.
Celebrating the Enduring Cultures of the Southwest
www.statemuseum.arizona.edu

Arizona State Museum is located just inside the UA's Main Gate at Park Ave and University Blvd
Free parking just one block from the museum at either Euclid and Second or Tyndall and Fourth

Arizona Humanities Council
Sharing cultures. Enriching communities.

CENTER FOR LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES
Programa de Estudios Latinoamericanos

With support from UA's Laboratory of Tree-Ring Research